Addendum: additional notes

This addendum appears in only one of the two documents served by /pdf/random2.pdf.

A test that fetches that URL twice should expect the two responses to differ: the extra content below is longer than a single line and shorter than a full page, so this variant runs to three pages while the other one stops after two.

Notes on the transactions listed above

Card payments are posted on the business day after the merchant submits them, so a payment made late in the month can appear on the following statement.

Transfers between accounts held by the same customer settle immediately and carry the date on which the transfer was requested.

Subscription charges are collected on the same calendar day every month. When that day falls on a weekend the charge moves to the next business day.

Salary deposits are credited in full on the day the payroll file is received.

Fees and interest

No account maintenance fee was charged for this period. Interest is calculated daily on the closing balance and paid on the last day of the quarter; none was due for this period.

Addendum: additional notes (continued)

Disputes

A transaction can be disputed for sixty days from the date on which it was posted.

Quote the statement ID from the first page and the date of the transaction.

Disputed amounts are credited provisionally while the claim is reviewed.
